EDA ALL-EUROPEAN DYSLEXIA CONFERENCE
Luxembourg
15th – 17th November 2007
and
GENERAL ASSEMBLY
17th November 2007

The Directors have announced the Second All-European Dyslexia Conference to be held on Thursday and Friday 15th – 17th November in Luxembourg. The Conference is being organised in conjunction with the Ville de Luxembourg and DYSPEL.

The 10th General Assembly of Members will also be held the same weekend on Saturday 17th November when the EDA celebrates its 20th Anniversary. It is hoped former Presidents and Board Members will be present.

Information about the two events is contained on pages 4 and 5 of this issue but all the details are contained in the Conference Website:

www.dyspel.org/eda

At the General Assembly, the opportunity is being taken, as reported in the last issue, to amend and up-date the EDA’s Statutes and Bye-laws so this is a very important meeting at which it is hoped all Members will be represented in person or by proxy.

President’s Column

The EDA is the democratically elected representative of the people with dyslexia in Europe

The heading implies that no one else can represent the 10% of the European population with dyslexia or is even in a position to tell them or the European institutions what the needs are of millions of people with dyslexia - this difference which makes the acquiring and using of reading, spelling and writing skills so difficult.

There is no question that we need academic scientists, “dys-abilities” institutions, professionals, special teachers and therapists to know more about our difference, but the final decision concerning how, ‘treatments’ or ‘therapies’ are to be applied – in other words, our needs – should remain in our control and ultimately rest with us. It should not be forgotten that we have become experts in our field as well, and directly affected ones, at that.

We are the ones who suffer. We are the ones called-in to see the Headmaster to hear the bad news; we pay the specialists; we are affected directly by our children on their difficult way through school, training and working life or have had these experiences ourselves. We are the ones shouldering this burden.

We, the people with dyslexia and the parents of children with this difference, have to navigate through life in a largely dyslexia-unfriendly world. Our self-organised executive body is the European Dyslexia Association (EDA), which represents us at the European level. The EDA Directors - almost all of them are affected by dyslexia themselves or are responsible for their children with this difference - operate on a voluntary basis without demanding any academic reward or financial benefit.

So, both the self-organised and the democratic structure of our movement (apart from our intimate knowledge of dyslexia) are the most precious and powerful assets which we possess.

However, I have two nightmares:

1. that our Effective Member organisations will not make use of their self-determining and democratic right to nominate enough serious and experienced Director candidates to be elected to the new Board for the period 2007 to 2011, and ……
2. that our Members will not make use of their right to elect their executive body, the Board of Directors, by not being sufficiently represented at the forthcoming General Assembly in Luxembourg on 17th of November 2007 by their representatives or by appointing a Proxy.

Surely, these are just bad dreams. But if they became true, the EDA will no longer be the democratically elected, self-determined representative of the people with dyslexia in Europe. We will be absorbed into someone else’s ‘agenda’ in their other business.

I do not want this to happen. Do you? Please, therefore, make sure you appoint a Proxy for the General Assembly on the appropriate form sent in August with the Notice of Meeting (a copy of the form is enclosed in this issue of EDA NEWS).

EUROPEAN DYSLEXIA ASSOCIATION QUESTIONNAIRE

The RIGHTS OF ADULTS WITH DYSLEXIA IN EUROPE

The EDA would like to find out more about the rights of students and adults with dyslexia living in Europe.

Questionnaires have been sent out to all EDA Members by Prof. Marta Bogdanowicz marta.bogdanowicz@wp.pl and Dr Marija Kavkler marija.kavkler@guest.arnes.si

It is hoped to publish the results of the two questionnaires in 2008 which will make a valuable contribution to the knowledge of what is available and, therefore, what still needs to be done.

The results will also help the EDA Board to prioritise its activities.

EU CallDysc Project

‘Collaborative Additional Language Learning for Dyslexics’

The European Dyslexia Association has been a representative partner in the CallDysc project.

This project looks at the way dyslexic people respond to language learning using ‘mobile’ technology (i.e. phones). To achieve this, the project uses sound pedagogical principles to develop software which can be used in a variety of mobile phones. More about this project will be in a future issue of EDA NEWS.
The European Disability Forum (EDF) launched in January 2007 a campaign to obtain one million signatures in favour of a European disability-specific directive of the European Parliament.

On 12th July the European President, Hans-Gert Pöttering, declared his support for the 1million4disability campaign just a few days after the launch of the European Commission’s online consultation on combating discrimination in Member States and at EU level.

To-date, the campaign has obtained over 300,000 signatures electronically and manually in the ‘EU-29’. On 4th October, an official gathering of disability delegations from all over Europe will take place in Brussels with the aim of demonstrating support for the adoption of improved legislation.

The European Disability Forum, the European platform representing the interests and defending the rights of 50 million people with disabilities in the EU, is leading this initiative. The aim of the campaign is to collect signatures in favour of strong, comprehensive legislation that will be effective in protecting people with disabilities from discrimination in all fields of life, in line with the recently adopted UN Convention on the Rights and Dignity of Persons with Disabilities, which has been signed by the European Community.

Members of the EU Parliament have drafted Written Declaration 64/2007 on “dys”crimination and social exclusion affecting children with “dys”abilities. The Declaration is asking for:

- a charter for “dys”children
- to encourage the recognition of “dys”-type problems as a handicap
- to promote best practice regarding:
  - making information available
  - taking timely steps to spot, screen, systematically diagnose and treat these disorders at an early stage
  - designing effective pedagogical structures within both the ordinary and the specialist educational environment for young children, adolescents and young adults
  - adapting structures for integrating young people with these disabilities into the world of work
- to promote and encourage the creation of a European multidisciplinary network on specific learning difficulties, and by this means to collect and study information and promote the co-ordination of cross-border actions, as well as institutional dialogue.

All disability groups within the EU are being asked to sign up to this text by 25th October 2007 in order to make it into a resolution.
The 31st Annual Conference of The International Academy for Research in Learning Disabilities (IARLD) was held in July at the Kompas Hotel in Bled, Slovenia when 57 participants from 16 countries attended.

The programme joint-chairs were Marija Kavkler (an EDA Board Member) and Marjorie Montague. Twenty-two papers were presented at the conference as interactive posters, five symposia and four round-table discussions. The invited keynote speaker from William Cruckshank Lecture was Prof. Pol Ghesquire with the title of his lecture being Strategy Development and Flexibility in Children with Mathematical Disabilities: Educational Consequences of Empirical Insights. The Academy Conference emphasised discussion of conceptual issues and produced the newest research results from the field of learning disabilities.

Besides exchanging formally presented newest professional achievements, exchanges and agreements for future co-operation were also discussed as being important issues for the participants.

In order to show a part of Slovenia’s beauty, a trip was organised to the capital, Ljubljana, and participants were also able to see other parts of Bled’s beauty and its surrounding countryside.

Marija Kavkler
celebrates its 20th Anniversary on 17th November 2007

A 20th Anniversary Report has been compiled and will be available to Members at the forthcoming EDA General Assembly on 17th November. All Members will receive two free copies of the Report which is being printed in Luxembourg. Additional copies will be available at a price to be advised.

The Report contains additional articles and photos.

Make sure you get your copy!

EU LEONARDO PROJECT ‘INCLUDE’
Final Meeting in Budapest, Hungary

‘Including dyslexics through European Partnership’

This project has been working for the last three years between dyslexia associations in Bulgaria, Greece, Hungary, Poland and the United Kingdom with the co-operation of the European Dyslexia Association.

The project aims to develop a web-based tool which will identify dyslexic people, their strengths and weaknesses, skills and difficulties. It will be used to inform an understanding of their learning style and help them progress via both training and employment situations to their maximum ability.

Support services will also be developed, including webcam and chat-based eCounselling, mentoring and guidance.

The Copenhagen Declaration of the EU agreed to increase voluntary co-operation in vocational education and training in order to promote mutual trust, transparency and recognition of competencies and qualification.

The INCLUDE project is developing a relatively new way to screen on an objective basis and looking at the development of e-learning tools.

The EDA has been represented at all the INCLUDE meetings which have been previously referred to in EDA NEWS. The EDA will be represented at the Final Meeting of the INCLUDE Project in Budapest on 29th September 2007.
APEDA France is to hold a national DYS DAY on 10\textsuperscript{th} October 2007 under the heading of ‘Let the DYS speak for themselves’ (donnons la parole aux DYS). There will be a number of conferences and meetings held the same day around the country to mark the event. In Paris the Conference will be at the Conference Hall of the Mutualité.

British Dyslexia Association (BDA)
The Chief Executive of the BDA will be sending a representative to the final EU INCLUDE Leonardo programme to be held in Budapest, Hungary 29\textsuperscript{th} September 2007.

BOOK LIST

The full Book List is available on our website. The Editors will be pleased for any suggestions or recommendations for inclusion in our Book List (in any language) which they have read and which are recognised as being of value to parents, teachers and other professionals concerned with dyslexia in their countries.
